Exposing fascists and disrupting their organizing in so-called Colorado

The Ancaps of Colorado – Martin Meyers: Child Predator

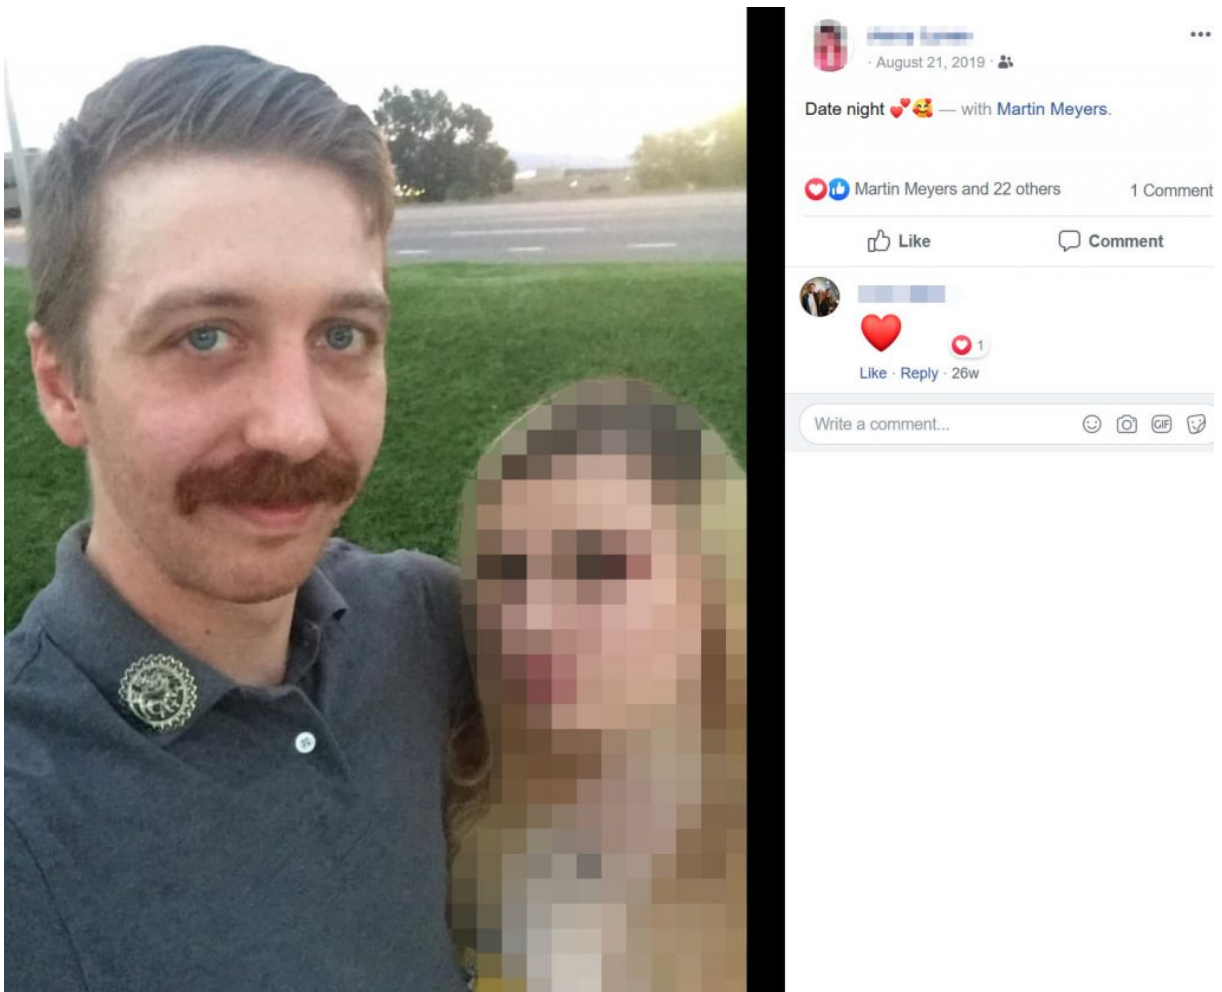

Martin Meyers is a 30 year old anti-Semitic Anarcho-Capitalist from Colorado

Springs who manages the Facebook page Being Anarcho-Capitalist and is closely aligned with the Colorado Proud Boys. Martin Meyers is a child predator whose most recent ex-girlfriend was barely 17 when they met.

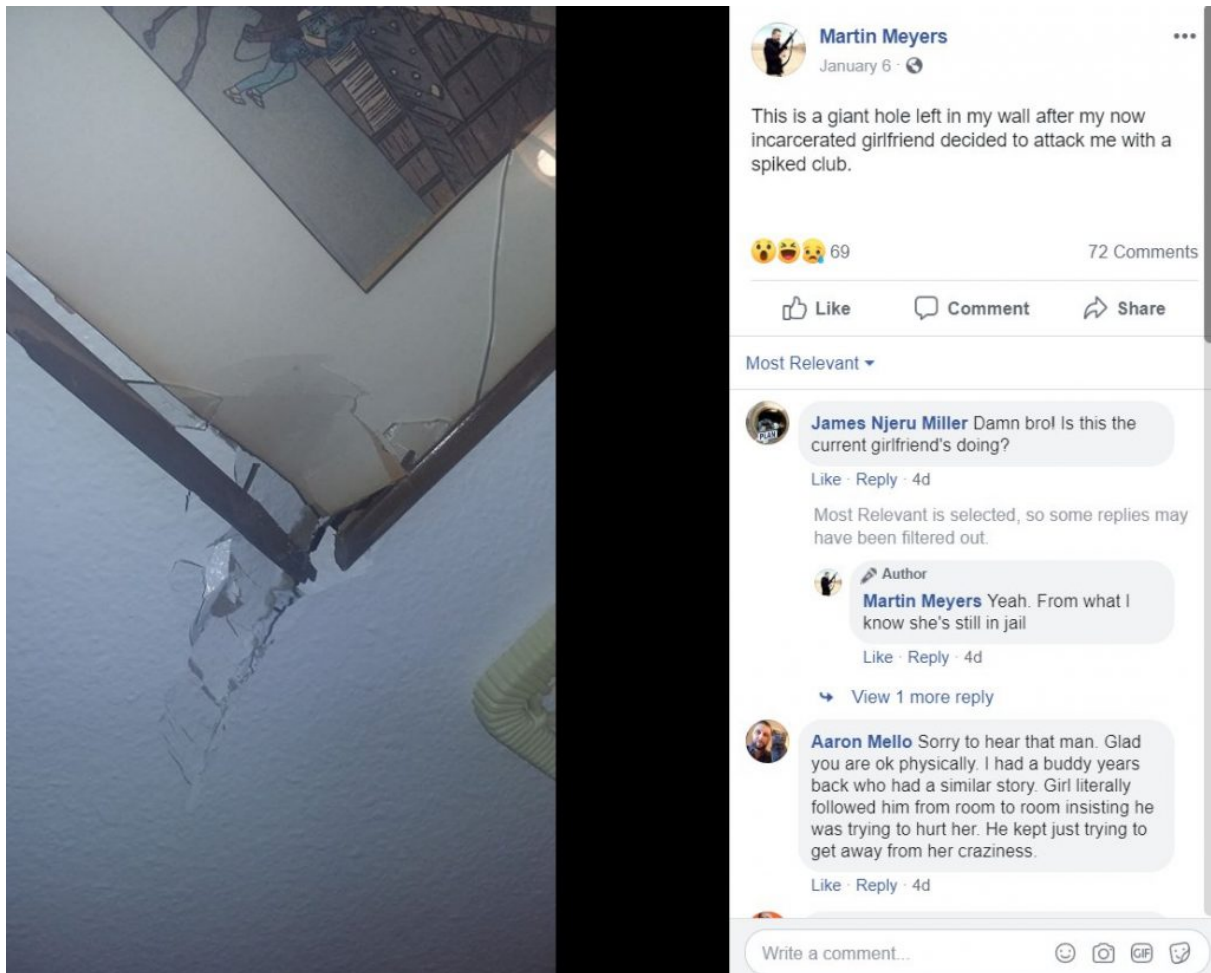

UPDATE 3 – Age of Consent Edition:

February 22, 2020

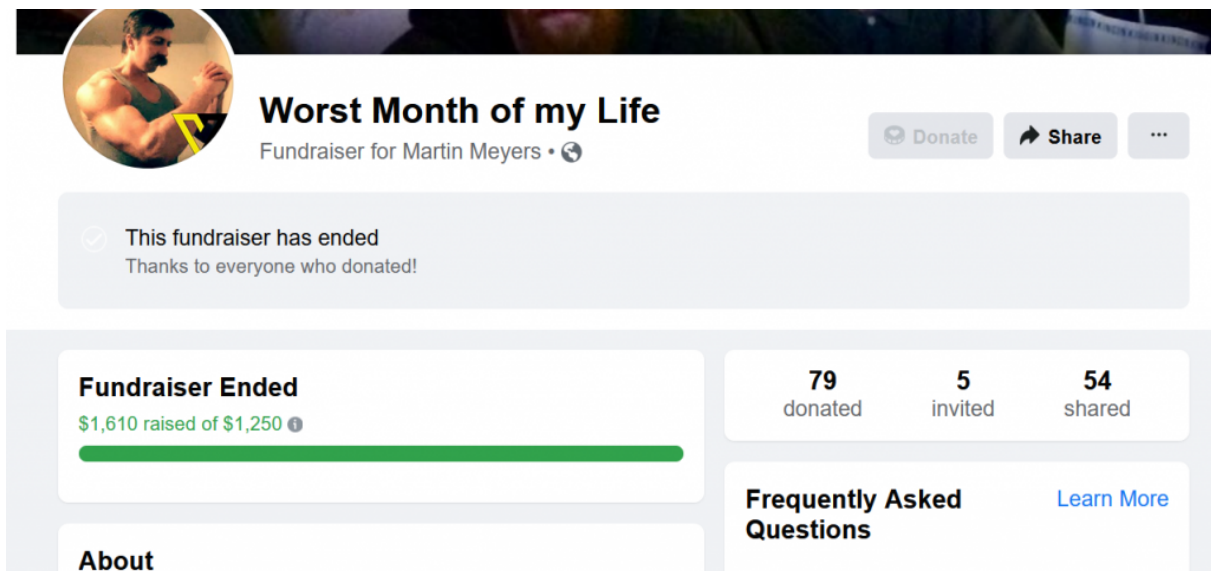

Martin Meyers with his 17 year old girlfriend. We have censored her for her protection.

Martin Meyers recently went through a major period of depression because his 17 year old girlfriend, beat him up.

Martin raised nearly $2,000 between Facebook and GoFundMe fundraisers after this incident, where he reveals that his girlfriend was paying half of his rent.

As some of you may know but some not so much, I recently underwent an extreme event in life that threw my life for a loop. I was in an abusive relationship with a woman who recently went to jail for felony assault on me. We were splitting bills in our apartment, and then I was left on the hook for everything. The psychological damage she did to me over so long caused me to go on a downward spiral. I was working as a carpenter, but was laid off due to missing work - during which I went to the hospital for a lethal BAC level. I considered suicide on multiple occasions during that period. I'm currently recovering from the culmination of everything, and have new employment in the works. I have my bills covered except for rent. I've been a fighter for liberty in Colorado for years, and want to continue the fight. I've only asked individuals for brief assistance in the past as I have never and will never ask for government assistance. I've been deeply depressed and stressed since everything occurred, and I have never felt as weak as I have now. I could use help now more than literally ever, and anything you can help me with would be insanely appreciated. See Less

Her Facebook birthday confirms this:

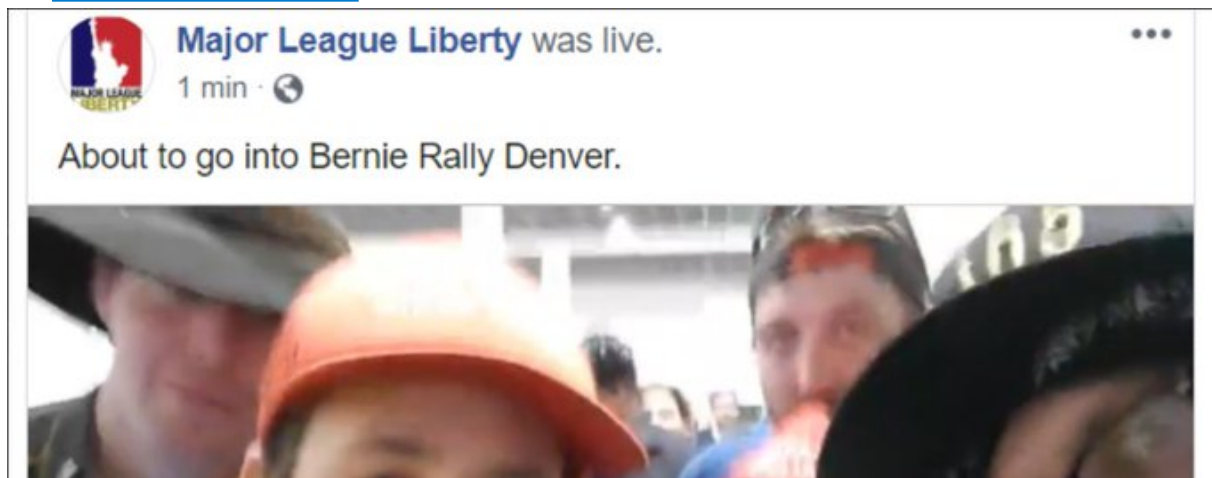

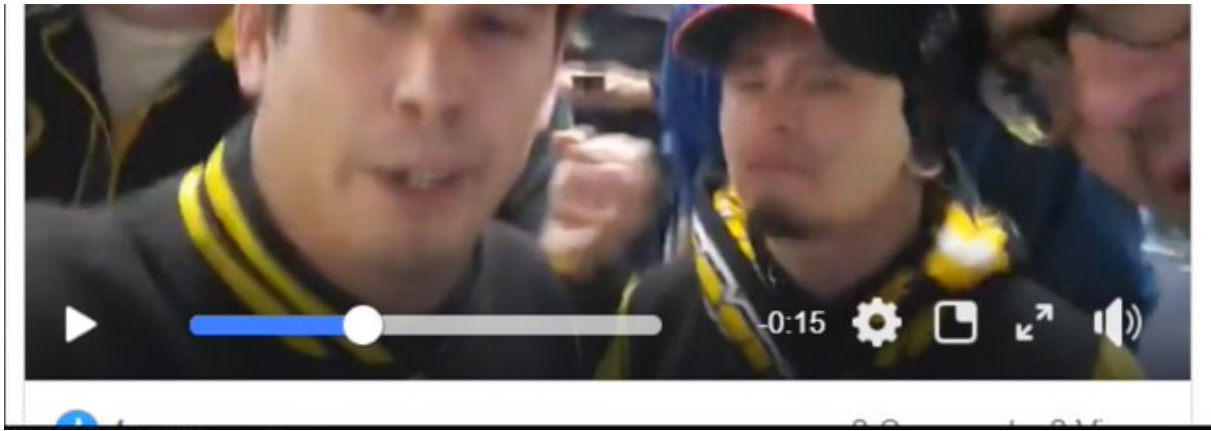

Facebook profile page for a user named Jassy. The profile picture is a pixelated image of a person's face. The cover photo is a red and white graphic with the text "YOU'RE PRETTY" and "THIS". The profile is set to "Public" and has a bio that says "To see what she shares with friends, send her a friend request." The "About" section shows "Overview" with categories like Work and Education, Places She's Lived, Contact and Basic Info, Family and Relationships, Details About Jassy, and Life Events. The "Details About Jassy" section shows a birth date of February 2002, "No schools to show", and "No places to show".

According to Martin's girlfriend, they began dating in May, 2019, which is just 3 months after she turned 17:

I told a gas station clerk today that it's fucking absurd that an 18 year old can be enlisted to go fight and die in some rich Jew bankers war but not smoke a cigarette.

He gave me a weird look and said 'have a nice day' sometimes throwing red pills directly in to peoples faces doesn't work out but you know what I don't care. Everyone is getting red pillled this year.

UPDATE 1:

Martin Meyers got his clock cleaned at a Major League Liberty event

Anarcho-capitalist Flag

Anarcho-communist flag

Anarcho-Capitalists (Ancaps) are the black and yellow sheep of the anarchist family. Unlike the other branches of anarchism, Ancaps are only concerned about oppression and hierarchies when it comes from the government or the state. They are less anarchists and more anti-statists. They're fine with oppression, discrimination, and rigid hierarchies when it springs from an economic basis. They embrace capitalism and suckle at the teat of Ayn Rand and Murray Rothbard the way Anarcho-Communists (Ancoms) love Marx and Lenin. Ancaps are often in favor of a stateless society, which we love. They often support things like Balkanization, secession, and the elimination of government above the county level (if that!), which gets us all excited. Unfortunately, they eventually start talking about economics and our eyes kind of glaze over and we look around quickly, hoping no one we know has seen us associating with these rubes.

As Anti-Fascists we try to stay out of politics, but as we all know the personal is political and vice versa. Most of us here at Springs Anti-Fascists are black flag anarchists, some are tankie ancoms, but most of what we do is community self-defense against, as our name implies, fascism. Being a Trump supporter or an evangelical Christian might make you an asshole, but it doesn't make you a fascist. Being a supporter of small government and individual rights definitely doesn't make you a fascist. Unfortunately ancaps, despite their small government, individual liberty ethos have no problem whatsoever collaborating with actual fascists. We've seen it again and again.

Here in Colorado Springs the Ancaps have a newspaper, The Front Range Voluntaryist, which expounds their philosophy in much the same way the Socialists do with theirs, The Rocky Mountain Revolution. There has been a feud between the two groups for a while, which most of us at Springs Anti-Fascists have observed with disinterest. One group wants to replace the state with corporate oppression, the other with collective oppression. While one group's oppression might actually improve people's material conditions, it's still a choice between two evils.

The ancaps decided to escalate their silly feud with the socialists by attempting to intimidate the socialists at one of their public meetings last month. A group of about 10-15 ancaps showed up outside Iron Bird Brewing with the intention of having some sort of confrontation with the socialists.

The physical intimidation of opposing political parties is kind of a hallmark of fascism, so we decided to look into this. The socialists are a bunch of bougie, craft beer-drinking armchair revolutionaries who aren't willing to risk confrontation, but we sure are.

The ancaps have a closed Facebook group where they mostly complain about communists and share bad memes. Despite their claims of respect for individual liberty, they seem really bothered by the prospect of people finding an economic system more viable and efficient than capitalism. The group is led by a dude named Martin Meyers, a Denver-based Starbucks barista who has to bum rides down to the Springs (the efficiencies of the free market!). Most ancaps ascribe to what they call the “Non-Aggression Principle” (NAP), which is essentially live and let live. As long as no one violates the NAP, everyone should get along. You would think a bunch of bros drinking overpriced IPAs and talking about Marx in an increasingly-gentrifying part of town wouldn’t violate the NAP, right? Not according to Meyers:

Any actual ancaps who try to call him out on his bullshit get booted from the group:

 That is best done by having speakers or gatherings like the one they attempted.

Martin Meyers That's an excellent idea. Still doesn't stop the spread of their ideas and the methods they use.

Like · Reply · May 14 at 1:53pm

It can stifle it if their views are morally and logically inferior

Martin Meyers As seen by their rapid growth, that isn't what they're interested in. They're interested in platitudes and conflict. The guys we went out to see are the ones with the money. They can fund and influence others and assist other violent groups as well.

Martin Meyers I know it sounds nice to just talk and be cool with everyone but unfortunately that's not ideal right now.

Like · Reply · May 14 at 2:03pm

So basically you want to have them incite violence to stop them by force from inciting violence. Which is essentially you inciting violence indirectly by seeking it out.

Martin Meyers No dude. They spread their ideas in an aggressive and threatening manner without recourse. On May Day that group did the same shit. Other chapters behave even worse. If someone wants to chat and have a peaceful protest or whatever I don't mind at all. But when you get groups that behave like they do, someone needs to step in. And I'm not going to intellectually hard-line on something I can actually help stop.

Martin Meyers Everything we're doing is for a reason, otherwise we wouldn't be doing it. Those rich yuppies have great influence on younger kids and could gain political sway if left alone.

Which is why you should present conservative views without the intent of conflict.

Martin Meyers They are if they're an active threat. I'm not one to sit idly by when I can help others.

He doesn't like aggressive tactics... like showing up en masse outside of a political party's meeting?

Props to the ancap paraphrasing Shakespeare and calling out their comrades on bullshit.

The dudes who support Meyers and his terrible ideas are typical fascists:

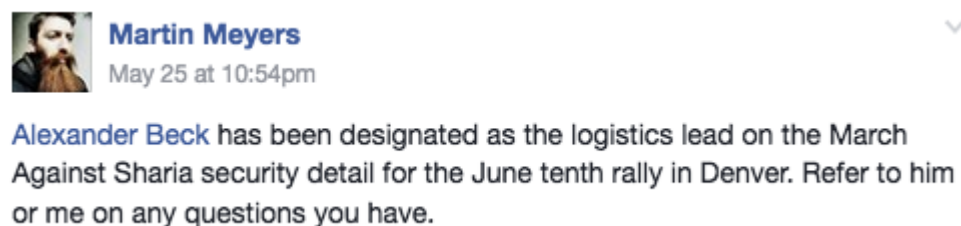

"Deus Vult" is the rallying cry of the Islamophobic, Christian wing of the alt-right.

Kenyon George brought home no souvenirs, btw.

Unless carting Meyers' ass back to Denver empty-handed is a souvenir?

Not only does Meyers want to stop communism, but he is willing to work with deplorable individuals in order to do so. He helped the Proud Boys organize their shit show in Boulder and he worked with the Proud Boys on the security detail for the "March Against Sharia" (he was so good at organizing the event was almost cancelled).

Alexander Beck is a Denver-area Proud Boy and racist asshole who got suspended from Regis University for his "Social Justice Bake Sale."

Despite his talk of free-markets, free-speech, and beating down the commies, Meyers public appearances largely consist of him standing behind rows of riot police quietly talking with his fascist buddies.

Meyers on the left, next to Thomas Cuccovia with the Ancap flag.

This is the first in a multi-part series, so be sure to come back for more on the ancaps of Colorado.
